The New Vision Media Center was inspired by Dr. Bishara Awad, the President of Bethlehem Bible College, who saw a need to bring hope and encouragement to the Palestinian people. He saw that, a Media training program within the context of the Bible College could provide a way of developing skills, providing employment and a means of using media to promote a better society.

In January 2003 the first Media Training Project began. Fourteen students joined the two-year program, graduating in 2005. In April 2005, five of the graduates from the Media Training Program were hired to prepare and develop the center. A decision was made to produce a one-hour television program to be broadcast every week on a local television station in Bethlehem. The program would include subjects as human rights, democracy, health, environment and local initiatives. The center expanded and became client-based, involved with producing film or audio according to the client
